Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to apply for the Client Service Officer role at MyBudget. What drew me to this role is the way it's framed around genuinely caring about people, not just handling calls — helping someone feel less stressed about money and more in control of their life is work I'd find real purpose in.

For the past two years I've worked directly with clients at VIP Cleaning Services, where I consistently scored 95% in client quality surveys by listening carefully to what people actually needed and adjusting how I worked to meet it. I also introduced standardised checklists that lifted site quality scores by 25% — the same accuracy and attention to detail I understand matters deeply when supporting someone's personal finances.

As Project Manager on a university capstone, I led a 5-person team delivering Call-a-Technician (callatechnician.com.au), a live platform now used in production by a real business. I was the direct point of contact for that client throughout, which taught me how much trust depends on listening properly and following through reliably — and I kept detailed, accurate records the entire way. I also hold a Bachelor of Information Technology and have independently built and deployed software products of my own, so I'm genuinely confident picking up new systems and applications quickly.

I'm a calm, empathetic communicator who takes real pride in making someone feel heard, and I'm flexible across early and late shifts Monday to Friday. I'd welcome the opportunity to bring that care to MyBudget's clients.

Thank you for considering my application.

Kind regards,

Priyanshu
