Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to apply for the Retail Customer Service & Sales Consultant role with Telstra, with interest across the Golden Grove, Ingle Farm, Modbury, and Salisbury locations given my base in Adelaide's northern suburbs. The chance to work with an iconic Australian brand while genuinely helping people find tech solutions that fit their lives is exactly the kind of role I want to build a career in.

For the past two years I've worked directly with clients at VIP Cleaning Services, where I consistently scored 95% in client quality surveys by listening carefully to feedback and adjusting how I worked to meet expectations. I also introduced standardised checklists that lifted site quality scores by 25% — a result I achieved by setting a goal and working consistently toward it, which I'd bring directly to hitting sales targets and KPIs in this role.

What I think sets me apart is my technology background. I hold a Bachelor of Information Technology and have spent the past year independently building and supporting live software products — including a customer booking platform and a help-desk system. That means I'm genuinely confident with devices, connectivity, and digital services, and I've had real practice explaining technical concepts in plain language to people who aren't technical. I'd bring that same curiosity and consultative approach to helping Telstra customers find the right plan, device, or solution — not just making a sale, but making sure it's the right one.

I stay positive and resilient under pressure — in a previous warehouse role I maintained 99.5% order accuracy across 200–300 orders a day in a fast-paced, high-volume environment, and I know how to stay focused and upbeat when a store gets busy. I'm a fast learner, genuinely motivated by goals, and excited about the training and career growth pathways Telstra offers.

Thank you for considering my application — I'd welcome the opportunity to bring my customer-service experience, sales drive, and tech curiosity to your team.

Kind regards,

Priyanshu
