Dear Hiring Team,

I'm writing to apply for Tanda's Graduate Program in Sales and Customer Success. I'm currently based in Adelaide and open to relocating to Brisbane for this opportunity — the fact that graduates get direct customer interaction from week one, rather than being shielded from responsibility, is exactly the kind of program I want to be part of.

I completed my Bachelor of Information Technology within the last 12 months, and what I think sets me apart for this specific role is that I genuinely understand the customer side of SaaS, because I've built and supported software myself. As Project Manager on a university capstone, I led a 5-person team to deliver Call-a-Technician (callatechnician.com.au), a live booking platform now used in production by a real business client. I managed that customer relationship directly — gathering requirements, setting expectations, and being the person they called when something needed sorting out. That's the same muscle Tanda's Customer Success and Sales teams use every day, and I've already had to build it under real stakes, not in a classroom exercise.

I've also independently built and now personally operate two more live systems, TicketDesk and SkyOps, which means I can speak credibly to how software actually works under the hood — a real advantage when explaining a workforce management platform to prospective or existing clients, not just reciting a script.

Beyond the technical side, I bring two years of direct, recurring client-facing experience from VIP Cleaning Services, where I consistently scored 95% in client quality surveys by listening carefully and adjusting to what each client actually needed. I'm curious, coachable, and genuinely excited about the long-term career paths previous Tanda graduates have built — locally and globally.

Thank you for considering my application — I'd love the opportunity to discuss how I could contribute to your Sales or Customer Success team.

Kind regards,

Priyanshu
