Dear Hiring Manager,

I'm writing to apply for the Graduate program with ProForce Australia. I'm currently based in Adelaide and open to relocating to Melbourne for the right opportunity — and a structured graduate pathway into sales, business development, or account management, with exposure to industries like IT/Telco, is exactly the kind of move I'm ready to make.

I hold a Bachelor of Information Technology and have spent the past two years in direct, recurring client-facing work with VIP Cleaning Services, where I consistently scored 95% in client quality surveys by genuinely listening to feedback and adjusting my approach to meet expectations. I also identified a gap in service consistency on my own initiative and introduced standardised checklists that lifted site quality scores by 25% — the same proactive, solutions-first thinking I'd bring to finding the right answer for a customer's needs in a corporate environment.

In a separate role at Electrolux, I maintained 99.5% order accuracy across 200–300 orders a day in a fast-paced, high-volume environment, and identified a process improvement that cut picking time by 20% — ambition and drive applied to make a measurable difference, not just get through the shift.

What I think sets me apart, particularly for IT/Telco or technology-adjacent client accounts, is my IT background. I've independently designed, built, and deployed three live software products over the past year, which means I can speak to technology and digital products with real confidence and curiosity — not a memorised pitch. I'm a fast learner, genuinely curious, and ready to bring real energy to a graduate role where I can grow.

Thank you for considering my application — I'd welcome the opportunity to discuss how I could fit into your graduate program.

Kind regards,

Priyanshu
